“ It has been four years since you are no longer here my son and it has not been easy. Your memory will never fade away because you mean so much to me. So much has happened since you left us physically and I often wonder if you were here how would it have affected you. Your beloved Grandma has also departed this earthly plane and in due time I know that you will be united. May the grace of God grant your soul eternal peace and rest and may he have mercy upon you in judgement.

Love always Dad.

“ Today you would have been 22 years and I could still remember the day you were born. It was a Sunday like today and I was dressed for church. You stole my heart from the first day and while growing up you admired me so much that I had to be a better person to set a good example for you. I may have fallen short sometimes but you still loved me anyway.

You died knowing that I loved you and that consoles me somewhat but it is still extremely difficult not to be able to see, hug, kiss and talk with you my son. But I have to believe that God knows best.

Love and miss you my son. Rest in peace.
Yor father.

“ Two years have passed since you departed my son and life has not been the same .I still miss seeing you and hearing your voice I was so looking forward to you utilizing your God given talents on the way to becoming a successful man. Raising a family and being a part of my life, but that was not God intended. It is as if my life has been separated into two phases....with you and after you. Everything has changed since you are no longer here my son, I miss you dearly and I hold even tighter to the memories of the times we spent together. I pray daily that God may have mercy upon your soul and that it may Rest In Peace.

“ I still cannot believe that you are gone forever my son. You have forced me to look at life and death differently. I think of you everyday, reflect on the times we spent together, the secrets we shared, our conversations, the laughter, and what turned out to be our last walk together. Sometimes I feel angry, cheated, and wonder how God could allow you to leave this earth knowing that I loved you so dearly. But I have to trust him that he has a better plan for you and that you are in a better place. What happens after death is beyond my knowledge but I pray that your soul is in the best place possible.
Rest In Peace my son. May the loving arms of the Almighty keep you safe and secure.

“ A year has passed and I am still in doubt that you're not here! I still hope every time I'm at grandma's house that you may just pop up like you always do. This pass thanksgiving was so weird not having you there. Spent it at mom's house with the kids. I prayed so hard for you to walk through that door like you always did. Then the kids would scream and run for hugs and to be picked up. Zeke we truly miss&love you and your memory will continue to live on in our hearts.

“ My nephew I'm so hurt that I cannot explain how I feel one year ago on this day I never felt the way and today I feel it more to know that you are not real here . I know if you was around if no one else visit your grandma and I we know for certain your visits are sure you pop up at any time I miss that moment. The last I heard from you was that you are sorry I'm sorry that you are not here with us . God bless you where every you are RIP Love you unconditionally.

“ It has been a year since you left us my son and it is still fresh in my mind like it was yesterday. They keep telling me that as time passes I will somehow feel better but that remains to be seen because everyday that passes without you here with us serves as a harsh reminder that it is going to be this way for the remainder of our lives. And I continue to ask WHY. I love you dearly my son and I hold close the memories of the times we shared together. May your soul rest in peace in the arms of our God.

“ My son to say that I am missing you everyday is like the biggest understatement I will ever make. But I don't know what else to say or do to express the pain,sorrow, emptiness, grief and loss I am feeling. I miss your smile,the soft spoken manner you spoke. I miss just knowing you're my son. This is the biggest challenge I have ever faced because I love you so much. More than you ever understood. I pray daily that your soul may rest in peace and that God will cradle you in his arms now that I can't. Love you forever. Dad.

“ I reflect on the last time I saw my son, it was the Sunday before he passed away. He had come to visit me and we walked over to my mom's home. During the walk to my mother's he asked me quite a few questions and we had a healthy discussion. He left my mom's to visit his girlfriend and as he left the house and was walking away, I stood at the door watching him. He felt my eyes and turned around to see me there just looking at him, and he smiled and continued on his way.
How could I have known that I not going to see that smile again ?
My son I know that you knew that I loved you dearly. But you were too young to fully understand what you mean to me.
Only God knows why he chose to take you away from me so soon and so suddenly but my love for you could never, ever die.
May your soul rest in peace.

“ To The Family of Sheridan Ezekiel Braithwaite...Words cannot express the sadness that my family is feeling on this day. Our son's grew up together on 103rd St and I watched them play outside together. From one Mother to another my heart aches for you and is broken. I know my words may not comfort you now but I will Pray that God grants you and your family strength to get through this day and the days to come without your son Sheridan.

Peace,

Nancy Orr and Noah Orr
